Hung Jury in Hester Case Brings Mistrial

A Hempstead Circuit Court jury deliberated three hours yesterday before deciding no decision could be reached in the case of Bob Hester, 54, on trial for the fatal shooting last October 21 of Philip Knighton, 41 both of McNab. The shooting occurred in Yellow Creek area on a Sunday.

As a result a mistrial was declared by Judge Lyle Brown and the jury dismissed. There was no date set for another trial. The hung jury climaxed two days of testimony in the case in which about 30 witnesses for both defense and state took the stand.

Hester took the stand in his own defense yesterday admitting there was ill feeling between the two men over the purchase of some cattle. He told the jury that Knighton, on horseback, attacked him with a knife after an argument. He admitted he shot Knighton four times and then went to Fulton where he surrendered to Constable Jim Moore. Hester said Knighton became enraged when he was told to keep his hogs from running wild on Hester's land. There were no witnesses.

The defense pleaded self defense and the state did not ask for the death penalty. Following instructions the jury deliberated an hour and returned before Judge Brown to go over instructions again. The deadlock ended the trial two hours later.

Judge Brown will pronounce sentences at 2 p.m. today. There will be no jury cases but several civil cases will be heard by the Judge on Thursday.

Ft. Smith Group to Seek a Vote

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Fort Smith Good Government League has set a meeting at 7:30 p.m. to hand out petitions to be circulated for an initiative ordinance for the next city election ballot.

The ordinance, if passed, would repeal a resolution setting up a $2.6 million urban renewal project, Paul Schlaf, league chairman, said.

The petitions must be filed by Jan. 31 and must contain the signatures of 1,500 qualified voters.

The league petitioned earlier for a public vote on the urban renewal issue, but the document was ruled invalid by City Clerk Carl Atkins, who said the title and wording of the petition were improper.

The petition was amended and filed again. Atkins ruled the second petition invalid because a copy of the resolution in question was not attached.

The project was scheduled to start Feb. 1.

Meredith Bids Adieu to Ole Miss

By BEN THOMAS

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—James H. Meredith bid adieu to the University of Mississippi Tuesday night. Whether he will return next semester remains a mystery.

Behind the wheel of a cantankerous car and amid the laughter and wisecracks of fellow students, the 29-year-old Negro who shattered the university's segregation barrier departed for a vacation.

Meredith's departure contrasted sharply with his arrival at Mississippi last September. His presence led to bloody rioting, followed by the armed protection of one time of 17,000 federal troops and hundreds of U.S. marshals.

Laughter and joking from students filled the air when Meredith's 1952 car wouldn't start. He was delayed more than an hour while various persons tried to start the car. Finally, newsmen, federal marshals and others showed it away from the curb and another car pushed it until it started.

Even Meredith seemed wryly amused. "Isn't this something," he quipped to newsmen.

Nearly 100 spectators looked on as one firecracker exploded but there were no other incidents.

Several times campus police chief Burnes Tatum ordered his officers to check identification cards of students who got too boisterous.

Shortly before midnight, Meredith left Memphis for Jackson, Miss., where he said he would stay during the semester break.

After arriving in the Mississippi capital city at 3 a.m., Meredith took several armloads of clothes into an apartment he reportedly has rented. The apartment is within walking distance of Jackson State College for Negroes.

Meredith has said he might not return to Mississippi for the spring semester unless conditions there become more conducive to learning. He has until Feb. 4—the last date of registration—to decide.

Although there have been widespread reports that Meredith was in serious academic difficulty, a faculty source said there was no danger of Meredith flunking.

The source said Meredith skipped his algebra test two days ago to concentrate on studying for his English literature test Tuesday.

University regulations call for an automatic "F" for failure to take a final exam without a valid reason.

Meredith's grades will not be disclosed. Even with an "F" in algebra, Meredith only needs two "C's" and two "D's" in other courses to keep off academic probation.

Chancellor John D. Williams said he did not know if Meredith would return and he doubted if Meredith knew himself at the present time.

False Teeth to a Child, Five

MALVERN, Ark. (AP)—Dr. Kirk E. Cone of Malvern handed out a new set of false teeth Tuesday to a five-year-old girl.

Deborah Ann Meece of Hot Springs got her uppers and lowers Tuesday.

Cone said she had been suffering from caries, or deterioration of the tooth enamel and he removed 20 of her baby teeth.

Now Deborah can eat apples and other foods, Cone said.

Nashville Has Gas in Time for the Cold

NASHVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The some 3,500 citizens of Nashville returned to "normal living" today after going without warmth-giving natural gas most of Tuesday.

A crew of 50 Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co. employees worked feverishly for more than 8 hours to return service after a regulator failed and the gas flow to 1,300 customers were halted. They were fighting against a cold wave predicted to hit the area during the night.

The regulator was quickly repaired, but the arduous task of turning off every meter in the community, turning the gas back on, then returning to turn every meter back on and check pilot lights on appliances took until nearly midnight.

These steps were necessary to prevent explosions and fires, company officials said.

The regulator, which controls the flow of gas on the line, failed in near-freezing temperatures, forcing the schools to close for the day.

E. T. Moody, superintendent of schools, commented, "We could go hungry, but we can't stay warm."

The Nashville Howard County Hospital has an electric kitchen. Dan Clark, administrator, said the building held some heat, but blankets were used to warm patients.

Several businesses and industries requiring gas for their operations also shut down. These included cafes and cleaning and pressing shops, the Case Shear Co., Nashville Basket Co. and the Nashville News.

There was a rush on blankets at local stores and residents built charcoal fires in buckets to warm their hands.

Workers from Hope, Prescott, Hot Springs, Arkadelphia, Emmett and Fordyce were called in to help the five Arkia employees in Nashville.

School was to be resumed today.

The cold wave was expected to bring temperatures in the 20s to the area today.

Backs Plan for Small Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's proposed tax reduction for small businesses received the endorsement of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Tuesday.

Kennedy, in his economic message to Congress last Monday, called for a 22 per cent levy on the first $25,000 annual profits and a 30 per cent levy on corporate profits above $25,000.

The present level is 30 per cent on the first $25,000 annual profits and 22 per cent on corporate profits above $25,000.

The proposed change would provide principal benefits to small business enterprises and help them compete with larger firms, Fulbright said.

Arkansas Girl Is Doing Fine

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Doctors reported Tuesday that Carol Ann Todd, freckled, 8-year-old girl, who underwent surgery Monday to correct a heart defect, was in satisfactory condition.

Surgery was performed at Texas Children's Hospital to close a hole in the wall between the two upper chambers of her heart.

It isn't known how long Carol Ann will remain in the hospital, a spokesman said.

Violence in Integration at Dollarway

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Integrated Dollarway School, scene of a racial incident Tuesday in which a white youth was injured and a Negro man jailed, was closed today because of adverse weather.

George Howard, president of the state branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, had said he would not send his 15-year-old daughter, Sarah, back to the school until adequate protection was provided.

He indicated he would appeal to Gov. Orval E. Faubus or Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy for protection for Sarah, who became the first student at the secondary level at Dollarway on Monday. Four other Negroes had been admitted in the first grade, beginning in 1960.

The incident Tuesday occurred as two Negro students were picked up to be driven home.

A missile slammed through the window of a station wagon driven by William Howard, a Negro who had come to pick up the children.

Sheriff Harold Norton said Howard 33, got out of the wagon to chase one youth and another, the injured boy, ran to intercept him.

The injured youth was identified by Norton as Johnny Irwin, a senior at the school. Norton said he suffered a knife wound in the chest, but was not seriously hurt.

Howard was arrested on an open charge, Norton said. The two students left the station wagon after the window was broken and walked unharmed into the school, Norton said.

George Howard Jr., father of Sarah Howard, 14, one of the Negro students, said a crowd of white students gathered when William Howard, his brother arrived at the school. Sarah began attending classes at Dollarway for the first time Monday. The other students, Samuel Wayne Cato, 8, a third grader, was admitted in 1961.

Howard said some of the students roughed up his brother after he got out of the car to go to call authorities.

Norton said his deputies had reported no crowd on hand and that Howard was not hurt when he was arrested.

George Howard, president of the Arkansas Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he learned of the trouble when his brother telephoned him from a store near the school and asked him to call officers.

Sheriff's deputies picked up the Negro students after the incident and took them home.

Howard said his daughter was struck in a school corridor by a white youth earlier in the day.

He said he did not plan to send Sarah back to school today. She is the first Negro student to enter the school at the secondary level. Racial barriers at Dollarway were lowered in September, 1960, with the admission of a first grader.

Norton said he did not plan to have a special patrol at the school. "I have seen the knots and bruises on my little girl's head. I cannot let her go back to that school until she is adequately protected," the father said.

Some 200 persons walked off their jobs at the plant over a company rules violation union officials said involved two women.

Dewey Stiles of Malvern, a representative of the union, said the strike was unauthorized and that workers would return to their jobs today.

Stiles and other union officials were to meet today with Les Courtney, plant manager, to settle the issue.

Fire Destroys Harrell Home

The home of Dinton Harrell, 504 South Hamilton Street, was destroyed by fire about 1:45 p.m. Tuesday. The house was owned by Mrs. Teresa Ward.

Firemen said the blaze seemed to have started from a bathroom stove. The entire house was gutted and there was heavy water damage to contents that wasn't burned. There was no immediate estimate as to the loss.

Legislators Try to Close Clemson

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Two members of the South Carolina House of Representatives were reported today to be preparing legislation to close Clemson College rather than allow its integration under federal court order.

Passage appeared doubtful. In the Senate Tuesday one of the state's leading defenders of segregated schools argued against closing Clemson, Sen. L. Marion Gressette, counseling peace and order, said court orders to admit Negro Harvey Gant are only a setback in a war which he said South Carolina still hopes to win.

The state apparently has exhausted all legal remedies against admission of Gant, 20, an architectural student who seeks to transfer to Clemson from Iowa State University. Clemson trustees meet in Columbia Thursday, presumably to act on the basis of U.S. Dist. Judge C. C. Wyche's formal filing Tuesday of the final order from the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Gant has said he expects to enroll Monday. The new semester begins Feb. 1.

State Reps. A. W. (Red) Belth and Mitchell Ott discussed the possibility of legislation to close Clemson in separate meetings with Gov. Donald S. Russell and Gressette. Gressette heads the State School Segregation Committee which for 11 years has helped preserve South Carolina's record of completely segregated public schools. The state is the last one to have such a record.

Homes Case Testimony Continues

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Max H. Smith, president and one of the owners of the now bankrupt Villa Mobile Homes Co., testified in U.S. District Court here Tuesday that he spent $15,000 of his money to pay for Villa debts incurred before he bought the firm.

Smith is one of eight persons charged with concealing assets and falsifying records of the company to evade U.S. bankruptcy laws.

The trial is in its third week. The other, Robert H. Close of Phoenix, Ariz., testified that in March 1961 the firm was so besieged by creditors that the owners operated "right out of our pockets."

He is vice president of the company and one of the owners. Smith, a native of Springdale, Ark., testified that he, Close and Rev. Robert Young of Tulsa, Okla., each paid $1,000 for the sales division of Villa and $500 each for the manufacturing division, as well as accounts receivable from a Tulsa firm and a check for $90,000.

Kenneth C. Close, brother of Robert and also a defendant, testified that he went to Camden, where the firm is based, to figure trailer production costs of the firm.

Planning Group Is Organized

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The mid-Arkansas River Valley Regional Planning Commission decided at a meeting here Tuesday to form a committee totaling 19 members to act as its principal agency.

The committee would have three members from each of the six counties involved in the development program. The counties include Yell, Pope, Conway, Logan, Franklin and Johnson.

County judges would make the appointments, the commission decided.

The committee is expected to take action in about two weeks regarding the proposed $81,000, three-year study of the river valley by the University of Arkansas.

A federal Urban Planning grant of $54,000 is expected to help offset the costs, with the six counties paying the remaining $27,000 over the three-year period.

Blowing snow created hazardous driving conditions in many areas. Snow clearing crews worked throughout the night in many cities, including Chicago, which was hit by more snow and subzero cold. The 16 below zero was the ninth subzero mark this month compared to a normal of three in January.

Ground blizzards hit Montana and more were indicated. All roads were snow covered and schools in the central part of the state closed as buses were halted. Travel was restricted by poor visibility. Similar conditions were reported in sections of Wyoming.

In Ohio, the speed limit on the Ohio Turnpike, covered with snow and slush, was reduced to 40 m.p.h. Snow depths ranged up to about four inches in Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Canton and Youngstown. All roads throughout the northern part of the state were snow-covered and slick.

Early morning low temperatures included -30 in Eau Claire, Wis., -9 in Wausau, Wis., -8 in Duluth and International Falls, Minn., and -6 in Minneapolis.

Snowfalls measured two to three inches in parts of western New York State and northwestern Pennsylvania. Freezing rain pelted areas in western Tennessee while rain drenched areas in the lower Mississippi Valley.

Frigid Air Fans Across the Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frigid weather, strong winds and snow staggered the nation's winter-weary midsection again today.

Weather Bureau forecaster said little relief appeared in sight immediately from the prolonged siege of bitter cold and stormy weather.

The severe wintry weather extended from Montana eastward to the upper Great Lakes region and southward into Oklahoma and Texas. Temperatures plunged to 30 degrees below zero in northern Midwest areas.

The zero zone stretched from western Montana southeastward to northern Colorado, Kansas through northern Missouri and southern sections of the upper Great Lakes.

The storm which reached blizzard conditions in Montana, Kansas and Nebraska, spread into Oklahoma early today. Winds of 50 m.p.h. fanned the arctic air, dropping temperatures as much as 30 degrees in three hours.

The fresh snow, piling atop a heavy covering across most of the Midwest, was reported from the northern Rockies through central sections of the Plains and the Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region. Falls up to a foot were general in Montana and ranged from 3 to 8 inches in many parts of the snow belt. The snow cover in Muskegon, Mich., on Lake Michigan, was to a depth of 8 inches.

Meetings and gatherings were cancelled but the Arkansas Legislature was to convene on schedule at noon.

The state Library Committee, which has two representatives from each county, cancelled its meeting in Little Rock today but said it would hold informal meeting for delegates already in the capital who could not get home.

Fort Smith and Walnut Ridge reported 10-degree readings today. The El Dorado had 31 degrees, the highest reading of any Weather Bureau station.

The record low in Little Rock for Jan. 3 was 10 in 1930. The record high was 81 degrees in 1943.

Judge Wilson Is Kiwanis Speaker

Municipal Judge John L. Wilson was the featured speaker Tuesday before Hope Kiwanis club and reviewed some of the history of the federal government and U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

He told the group that he violently disagreed with some of the court's decisions in recent years, and pointed to several of the great questions that confronted the court and of the decisions which were handed down.

He also quoted noted men, some living and some in the past, and what they had said of decisions of the court. He concluded his talk by saying that each dawn of a new day brings added responsibility to individual citizens. The program was arranged by Ralph Lehman, Jr.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Herndon-Cornelius Chapel by the Rev. Noel O'Steen and the Rev. W. E. Morrow. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Former Resident of County Dies

Mrs. Rosa May Toner, aged 82, a longtime resident of Hempstead, died Tuesday in a Superior, Arizona, hospital. The body will be returned to Hope for burial. Herndon-Cornelius will announce arrangements.

The worst cold wave so far this winter slashed into Arkansas today. It was expected to bring up to three inches of snow and ice and push temperatures as low as five degrees below zero.

Virtually every road and highway in the state lay under a heavy glaze of ice or snow. State Police said travel conditions were at a "most dangerous" peak and advised a halt to all but emergency traffic.

Several wrecks were reported around the state. A trailer truck jackknifed on a bridge at De Vall's Bluff early today and at mid-morning the driver still had not been found.

The Weather Bureau said the cold wave would not release its grip until the weekend.

Schools were closing by the dozens, many simply because of the cold. Others were open but were not running school buses.

The arctic cold front extended from mid-Tennessee into north-east Texas, and also covered part of Louisiana. Gusts of wind up to 5 miles per hour accompanied the cold and made temperatures in the teens seem to be even lower.

Harrison reported a temperature of three degrees below zero this morning. The mercury fell 5 degrees in two hours there Tuesday night after reaching a high of 53 Tuesday. Fayetteville reported one degree below zero today.

Light snow was reported over much of north and central Arkansas today. The points that didn't report snow had freezing drizzle. The snow accumulation was small this morning, but the Weather Bureau in Little Rock forecast more later in the day.

The snow was expected to cover most of the state by tonight and stop in the northwest later today and in the northeast and south tonight.

High temperatures today were reached early in the morning before the full force of the cold wave hit.

The high temperature Tuesday in Little Rock was 62, the official high for the state. The mercury stood at 16 in the capital city this morning.

Meetings and gatherings were cancelled but the Arkansas Legislature was to convene on schedule at noon.

The state Library Committee, which has two representatives from each county, cancelled its meeting in Little Rock today but said it would hold informal meeting for delegates already in the capital who could not get home.

Controversy Over Cuba Again Flares

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversy over the failure of the 1961 Cuban invasion has flared up again.

The Senate Republican leadership announced Tuesday it would begin an independent investigation of the U.S.-backed assault on the Bay of Pigs, and Democrats immediately raised a cry of "politics."

In Miami, some Cuban exile leaders took issue with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's statement that the United States never promised air cover for the invasion.

Dagoberto Darias, head of an invasion veterans organization and a commander of one of the assault transport ships, charged Tuesday that President Kennedy betrayed the Cuban people, even though "his brother is attempting to justify him on the Bay of Pigs fiasco."

BALLOON ROOM—The need for a super-clean room for assembly of guidance and control systems at the Salt Lake City, Utah, plant of Litton Industries, was solved by draping a plastic swimming pool cover over the entire 24x45-foot assembly area. A small blower provides air to keep the "balloon room" inflated.

He said jets were in the air on invasion day and that he had received a message from "the American flagship directing our operations" advising that air cover would be forthcoming at 2:30 p.m.

"We saw the first two planes pass in the direction of Giron Beach (invasion point)," he said. "A minute later two other jets crossed, but the next minute, the first ones returned, like sea gulls fleeing from a storm."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said today he is already gathering information on the crushed invasion and would lay it before the Senate Republican Policy Committee within two weeks.

The committee, he said, gave him clearance to begin the investigation.

Dirksen's aim obviously was to assemble evidence to rebut Atty. Gen. Kennedy's recent review of "mistakes" made in the assault. Dirksen said only that he was interested in learning if the President's brother "told the entire factual story." But Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., contended in the Senate that Kennedy's summary was a cleanup operation—designed to make the worst mistake of the President's career seem like something entirely different.

The White House declined to comment on the investigation. There was no comment from the attorney general.

Democrats responded that the Republicans were trying to play politics in international matters. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said it "has a strong partisan aura."

"Any conclusion they reached would be considered quite partisan," he said. "I doubt very seriously that any objective findings will come out of it."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said: "President Kennedy has taken full responsibility for the failure at the Bay of Pigs. This is no longer a matter of consideration."

The GOP investigation seemed certain to focus on Atty. Gen. Kennedy's contention that the United States had never promised to provide air cover for the invasion.

Last week a group of Cuban invasion leaders visiting the attorney general indicated to newsmen that no U.S. air cover had been pledged, saying "we had our own planes."

In another development, two officials of the American Red Cross flew into Havana Tuesday at the invitation of Cuba. There was speculation their mission may

Snow Line Moves Across Europe

By ANTHONY WHITE

LONDON (AP)—Europe's snow line moved relentlessly southward today as the continent remained locked in one of its bitterest winters in memory.

Snow piled up in the Italian Adriatic coastal towns of Foggia and Bari, where it is a rare sight. Most of Italy was under snow for the fourth straight day.

Salonika, Greece, was buried under snow 5 feet deep in places. Frozen engines stalled the Simpon Express between Paris and Istanbul just outside Salonika. Low clouds foiled a Greek air force attempt to parachute supplies to isolated mountain villages near the Yugoslav border.

The great cold continued to spread death, misery and chaos. Hundreds of major highways were blocked. Pack ice jammed ports and shipping lanes. Millions faced food and fuel shortages.

Britain, snowbound for almost a month, moved into its 34th straight day of freezing or near-freezing temperatures. It was the longest spell of unbroken cold on record. The temperature sank Tuesday night to 3 degrees.

At Southampton fish froze where they swam, their heads poking out of the ice. Seabirds skated across and picked at them. Hungry foxes skidded across an ice-encrusted river at Christchurch, in Hampshire, to feed on frozen swans.

Radio Sofia reported blizzards had buried Bulgaria under snow, paralyzing transport and cutting off the capital from its suburbs. Temperatures plummeted to degrees below zero.

On the Oresund the narrow strip of water separating Sweden walked half way across. Some rode bicycles on the sea and got in the way of icebreakers.

Temperatures in France ranged from 5 degrees to 4 below zero. Several factories in northwest France closed, idling more than 3,000 workers.

Snow blocked the Paris-Bern deal with the 17 or more Americans held in Cuban prisons.

Government officials were still refusing to say how many cargo ships have docked at Cuban ports since the U.S. naval blockade was lifted more than two months ago.

The State Department backs such questions to the Defense Department which says the information is classified.

"I don't know anything you don't know, lieutenant," he added.

"One thing is certain, Matt. The killer thinks you do. Sure you told me everything?"

"Everything except what I had for supper," said Matt. "I had a club steak."

The lieutenant didn't believe him, Matt could see that in his eyes. And Matt decided that the lieutenant was a good officer who never took things for granted. Especially things people said.

"All right, you're the one getting shot at. If you know something and aren't telling us, it could be your funeral."

The big cop talked to Moynihan again, then hung up the phone. "He wants to see you tomorrow, if you're still alive," he said and went out.

Matt was alone with Suzy. She got up and ran into his arms.

He felt her warm body clinging to his, as her head buried itself in the heavy folds of his topcoat. Suddenly then she pulled back.

"Go home, Matt."

"You're changing the subject," he said.

"No, I'm not. Please go—"

He wondered if this, too, was the same treatment she gave to all the boys. Give the girl credit, he told himself. After all this has nothing to do with murder.

"All right," he said, turning to the door.

As his hand touched the door knob she said, "Wait, Matt. The killer may be out there."

Matt paused with the door partly opened. He looked at her, a smile playing around his lips.

"You can't stay either," said Suzy.

He went out the door and to his car.

No gun broke the stillness. The killer was long gone from this neighborhood.

A few minutes past 9 o'clock Matt Bacon appeared in the lieutenant's office. He smelled of shaving lotion and he was full of the morning freshness that seldom exists except in poetry.

"Matt," said Moynihan after Matt had seated himself on the other side of the officer's desk, "somebody you talked to yesterday didn't like your approach. What do you know that I don't know?"

"I wouldn't know, unless you told me everything you know," said Matt. "That would be a fool stunt on your part. Not that it would help me solve the case, but any man's an idiot when he tells all he knows."

"Who'd you talk to?"

"About 20 people. Half of them didn't matter. Jack Clague took me in to see Bradley and after we got straightened out I went over to the cafeteria. I met people there, principally Cliff Johnson and Simon Rispin. Then I went back to Bradley's office—that's after I walked over to the Appliance Building and met Rispin's secretary, whose name I forget and probably doesn't matter. I also saw a couple of others there. Nobody important. I talked to Westfall. I'd already talked to Suzy. Did I mention her?"

"You didn't and I'd have been suspicious if you didn't mention her. You saw a lot of her yesterday."

"She's easy on the eyes. I went to the Nuclear Lab and talked to Dr. Baylor, who is also not hard to look at, and Dr. Stroup, who could be more beautiful. I talked to assorted security cops, receptionists, technicians and to you."

"What did you talk about?"

"Various things. I asked what kind of a man Chester Pruitt was. Whether people liked him. Whether he acted strangely last Thursday. And if anybody had any ideas why he was killed. Maybe other things crept into the conversation. Doc Stroup got all wound up with philosophy. Doc Baylor talked about an anti-universe and how Pruitt might have canceled himself out, but finding Pruitt's body sort of knocked her idea in the head."

"What else?"

"Last night I called on Mrs. Pruitt. Mrs. Johnson dropped in, and I took Suzy home. You know the rest. Oh yes, I did try a little experiment at the Time Office, but it didn't work and nothing came of it."

"Tell me about it."

Matt told of his abortive attempt to punch two cards.

"Clumsy," said Moynihan.

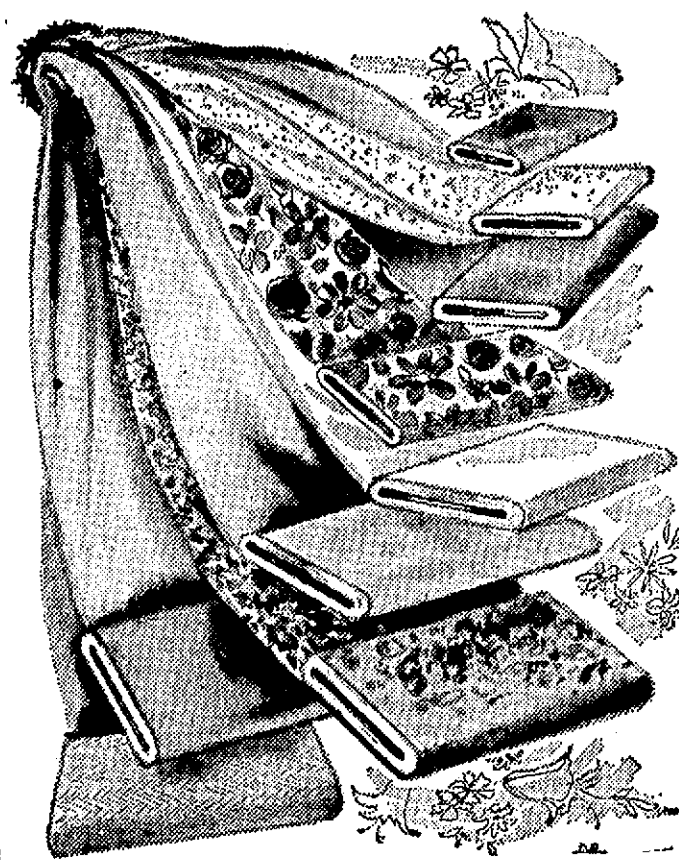

Matt pulled out his list of suspects. "I went through the statements Clague has—about a third of them—and got some names. I didn't have Belle Pruitt on the list, nor Mrs. Johnson, but both can be eliminated anyhow. Neither of them could have taken a pot shot at me last night. And I know Suzy Stevenson didn't."

The council also went on record opposing a legislative act to increase the salaries of municipal judges.

It was reported that the Senate Monday passed a bill raising the maximum salary of all municipal judges from $7,000 to $8,400 a year. Actually, the Senate acted on a local bill which covered only the Fort Smith Municipal Court.

Negro Boy Robs Wife of Brooks Hays

WASHINGTON (AP)—A youth slipped into the Capitol Hill home of presidential assistant Brooks Hays Monday and robbed Mrs. Hays by threatening her with a scissors, police reported.

Mrs. Hays, 65, told police she was sewing in a second floor bedroom Monday afternoon when she looked up and saw a Negro standing in the doorway.

When she asked him what he was doing, he replied, "The lady downstairs told me to come up."

"Well let's go down and see," she told him. She said she led the youth down the stairs and was approaching the front door when he jerked a pair of scissors from her hand.

Mrs. Hays said the intruder told her, "Let's go back upstairs, and you'd better give me some money or I'll kill you."

The youth took $10 to $12 in some church envelopes lying on her dresser, she said, then ran from the house.

Her husband was returning to Washington after making a speech at Virginia Polytechnic Institution at Blacksburg, Va.

Hays, a Democrat is a former member of the House from Arkansas. After losing in a bid for re-election he was named an assistant secretary of state for congressional affairs, then later was transferred to the White House.

The Hays home is across the street from a Roman Catholic church in which a woman secretary to Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., was stabbed last fall while kneeling in prayer.

Firms Might Find Tax Cut Expensive

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Corporations might find themselves paying more tax instead of less under the first full year of President Kennedy's proposed tax reduction program, it was learned today.

Well-posted sources reported also that Kennedy plans to call for a sharp curtailment of the personal deductions claimed by millions of taxpayers for charity, interest, local taxes and casualty losses.

In a 9,000-word special message to Congress Thursday, the President will reveal the details of the proposed three-year tax package which would cut corporate and individual income tax rates by 33.5 billion but would partly offset these reductions by $3.5 billion of revenue-raising revisions.

The message will urge early tax relief—next July 1—for individuals and small businesses. For corporations generally, it will propose a two-stage reduction starting next Jan. 1 to reduce the corporation rate from 52 to 47 per cent in annual steps.

In the event Congress goes along with the whole Kennedy plan—an unlikely prospect, in the opinion of many members of Congress—the corporations would not receive a full benefit of their $2.5 billion rate reductions until 1969.

The reason is Kennedy's proposal that corporation tax payments, now due six months after the quarter in which the income was earned, be speeded up sufficiently over a period of years to bring the tax collections to a current basis.

This would increase total cor-

New Agency Talked by Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus conferred Tuesday

with administration personnel on creation of independent Soil and Water, State Planning and Geology commissions for Arkansas.

Faubus had outlined plans for the commissions to the 1963 legislature last week. He wants to have them created by April 1, the present law under which the state conservation commission operates.

The commission is now responsible for watershed planning, ground water survey, topographical mapping, coal investigation, stream gauging and is the clearing house for the Water Compact Commission.

It was given $285,575 this fiscal year to handle its chores. The commission also received $152,000 from various soil conservation districts and $41,600 in federal funds for the planning section.

Faubus would have the Soil and Water Commission handle activities related to soil, water and conservation. The Planning Commission would be responsible for establishing a massive inventory of the state and helping communities in river basin areas develop economically. The Geological Commission would work directly in its field.

The West Coast's high pressure ridge shows no sign of moving on and the long range weather forecast through Feb. 15 calls for below normal temperatures in most of the northern two-thirds of the United States.

Nor is there any sign of a letup in the severe cold caused by a north to south air flow over Western Europe.

The speed of air circulation also determines the intensity of the cold. The circulation has been unusually strong over the United States this winter.

We all have our "ideals" and the boys seem to like us but when it comes to dates, we're wallflowers. How can we flag the boys? Thank you so much for any advice you can give us. —The Lonely Girls
Dear Lonely: Charm them with your looks, intelligence and gale-ty. That sounds like a large order but it isn't if taken step by step.

Study the women's pages of the newspapers and fashion magazines like Mademoiselle, Glamour and Seventeen. Dress to your type. If you can't afford to buy the man's doing. It seems like he is trying to turn my own mother against me.

Perhaps I am an angel. What girl is at my age? But I love my mother very much — we've grown very close in these intervening years. I want her to be happy but, if things don't change I'll wind up hating this man who may be my step-father. What can I do? —Dumb-bell.

Welfare Grant Bill Submitted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Bills to increase the maximum welfare grant for aged and blind beneficiaries were filed in the Arkansas House today.

The bills, carrying the signatures of Reps. Lonnie Etheridge of Jackson County, Mack Evans of Van Buren County and Bill Tucker of Hot Springs County, implement a suggestion made by Gov. Orval E. Faubus in his inaugural address.

The maximum permissible grant would be increased from $65 to $85 a month but the bill takes note of the fact that federal welfare provisions now provide for a maximum payment of only $70 per month.

Cleveland County Rep. Raymond Mays filed a bill to reduce the work week for firemen from 72 to 56 hours.

Efforts to pass such a bill in the last several legislatures have been unsuccessful.

Says Aviation Aides Are Slandered

WASHINGTON (AP) - N. E. Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, charges that several of his colleagues have been slandered and libeled, for the narrowest of reasons by

He told a news conference on Monday that two articles and an editorial in the magazine were sensational writing which harmed the FAA's efforts to promote air safety.

One article contended the FAA interfered with the Civil Aeronautics Board's investigation of a jet airliner crash last March at New York's Idlewild Airport in which 95 persons died.

The other, focusing on air traffic control problems, quoted FAA statistics as indicating that there would be 1,000 near-misses between planes in flight this year.

The editorial said the FAA should have done everything it could to help the New York crash investigation, instead of issuing what it called "premature and ill-informed statements about the crash."

The editorial said that air traffic control personnel work under incredible pressure and that FAA has done little to lessen it.

A week ago the FAA issued a statement in which it said there were factual errors in 35 paragraphs of the articles.

The statement included CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd's comment that "the assertion that the FAA obstructed the investigation and that there is a feud between the two agencies is contrary to fact."

Saturday Evening Post officials were unavailable for comment.

Says Doctors Need Some Improvement

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - A surgeon said today that the medical profession needs to improve its public image.

"We who once stood high in the esteem of mankind have, it seems, discovered the secret of making the public hate us," Dr. Frank E. Stinchfield of New York City said in a speech prepared for the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.

"Medicine is the best proof I can offer of the low point to which we have descended. In the last year the medical profession stung up and was counted on that issue - and you know the result. We eked out a narrow victory. But can we do it next time? Can we continue to keep socialized medicine away from the door when so many people feel the way they do about us?"

In his presidential address at the annual meeting, Stinchfield said improper actions of a few physicians give the entire profession a bad name.

"There are those who charge exorbitant fees. Some have the conviction that socialized medicine is inevitable and therefore they must make as much as possible before it comes," he said.

Union to Mortgage Headquarters

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Newspaper Guild, announcing it is mortgaging its headquarters building to help pay strike benefits to members, has urged that fresh personnel be brought into negotiations if necessary to end this city's 46-day newspaper shutdown.

At a membership meeting Monday night, the guild adopted a resolution calling on Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and federal mediators to insist that striking printers and newspaper publishers "resume negotiations and continue in session until an agreement has been reached."

Both sides, the resolution said, "seem to be unable to remain at the bargaining table long enough to effectively discuss a settlement."

The guild, which represents editorial and commercial employees, is one of 10 unions whose members have not been working because of the printers' strike.

Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union went on strike against four of the city's nine major newspapers Dec. 8 in a contract dispute. The other five major dailies closed down.

In Cleveland, the AFL-CIO Newspaper Guild and the Independent Teamsters Union have been on strike for 54 days against the Ohio city's two dailies—the Plain Dealer and the Press & News.

Negotiators for the Cleveland Guild and publishers met for 2½ hours Monday in the office of Cleveland Mayor Ralph Locher, who has been serving as mediator. Another session was scheduled today.

The New York Guild meeting voted down an amendment to its resolution. It would have had the guild ask President Kennedy to intervene in the strike by appointing a board of impartial experts to seek a settlement if the dispute was not ended in one week.

M. Michael Potoker, secretary-treasurer of the New York Guild, told the meeting that the union has paid $1,270,000 in strike benefits to some 5,000 idled members here. Benefits have ranged from $30 to $80 a member, depending on family status.

The local strike fund has paid $150,000 in strike benefits to some 5,000 idled members here. Benefits have ranged from $30 to $80 a member, depending on family status.

The local strike fund has $159,000 left in it, Potoker said. Some $700,000 has been borrowed from other AFL-CIO organizations.

The local fund needs $420,000 more, he added, if it is to pay benefits until newspaper people idled by the printers' strike begin drawing state unemployment compensation Feb. 1.

Potoker said the parent American Newspaper Guild is contributing $150,000 toward benefits, a bank loan of $70,000 is planned, mortgaging of New York Guild headquarters will raise an additional $150,000, and the guild is ready to cash in $50,000 worth of government bonds.

your SOCIAL SECURITY

QUESTION: I recently sent one of your postcard forms (Request for Statement of Earnings, OAR-7004) to check up on my Social Security account. Some of my wages for 1961 were missing. How do I get this error corrected?

ANSWER: You can take the withholding tax forms (W-2 forms) from every employer you had during 1961 and the statement that we sent you to your nearest Social Security representative. If you don't have your W-2 forms make a list of your employers during 1961 and their addresses. List the months you worked at each place and the amounts you earned in 1961 from each employer.

The Social Security representative comes to the Hope City Hall each Thursday from 9:00 A.M. till 12:00 Noon. If you are working and can't make time off to come in person someone else could bring the information for you, or you could mail it to the Texarkana Social Security District Office, 121 West 33rd Street, Texarkana, Texas, along with signed permission to contact your employers about the missing earnings. You will be notified when the correction has been made.

W. Germany, France Sign a New Pact

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP) - West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French President Charles de Gaulle today signed a comprehensive treaty of cooperation between Germany and France, laying to rest centuries of conflict.

The chancellor, 87, who regards French-German reconciliation as the crowning achievement of his waning political career, signed for his country, followed by Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

De Gaulle, who led Free French forces from British exile in the Allied victory over Nazi Germany in World War II, signed for France. He was followed by Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

The statesmen also signed an accompanying joint declaration of principles, calling for a lasting friendship between the two nations which have so frequently clashed.

The treaty calls for regular periodic consultation between the chiefs of state or government, and ministers and officials of the two governments to coordinate policy in the domains of diplomacy, defense, education and culture.

It was presented as an example to other European nations and a basis for further progress in European unity.

Adenauer is under pressure from his Parliament to prevent a breakdown of the negotiations to admit Great Britain to the European Common Market when talks resume Monday in Brussels, Belgium.

Small Canaveral in Space Seen

By JOHN BARBOUR

Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - By 1970, the United States will need a miniature Cape Canaveral in space—an orbiting service station to launch and repair rockets, a space agency planner said today.

When it isn't acting as a space hangar and launch base, the station—300 feet long and 33 feet in diameter—could double as a scientific laboratory for exploring the space environment.

It would be put into space in two sections, explained George von Teschenhausen, chief of future studies for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Launch Operations Center.

First, a giant Saturn C5 rocket would put a 90-foot section into orbit for the scientific laboratory.

Staff members would reach the laboratory in Apollo space buses, patterned after the vehicle that is to land the first American on the moon.

About 15 men would man this first section, Von Teschenhausen told the annual meeting of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences.

Another Saturn rocket would carry up the second section—a space service station with a telescoping hangar that could extend to cover some of the smaller rockets.

This section would rendezvous with the orbiting laboratory and hook on.

Georgia Wins Big Ones in a Whisper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Parlaying muscle, height and an impressive crew of sophomores, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets are making perhaps their loudest bid in a quarter of a century for top basketball honors in the Southeastern Conference — by winning the big ones in a whisper.

In a whirlwind comeback sparked by a trio of sophomores, Georgia Tech took another close decision Tuesday night—69-64 over Auburn. R. D. Craddock, Jim Caldwell and Ron Scharf scored all but one of Tech's last 17 points as the Jackets ranked seventh nationally, ran their season record to 13-1.

Georgia Tech, gunning for its first SEC title in 25 years, also pushed into second place ahead of Auburn and right behind Mississippi State. Tech is 3-1. The Maroons, only club to beat the Yellow Jackets, are 4-1.

In other games, Canisius won its ninth in 11 starts, beating Scranton 83-78; Dartmouth clouted New Hampshire 66-50, and Idaho beat Montana 78-69.

Berryville has earned and still holds the distinction of being "The Turkey Capital of Arkansas." Over 500,000 turkeys are raised annually in the Berryville area.

Hope Star SPORTS

Schayes Says First 1,000 Were Tough

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"The first 1,000 were tough, the second 1,000 should be tougher,"

Thus spoke Dolph Schayes, professional basketball's iron man, Tuesday night after he became the first ever to play in 1,000 regular season National Basketball Association games.

Schayes, a 6-foot-8, 200-pounder now in his 15th season with the Syracuse Nats, scored seven points on three field goals and a foul and grabbed four rebounds as the Nats lost to St. Louis 113-93.

He played 15 of the 48 minutes.

The former New York University star, who will be 35 in May, received a tremendous ovation from the Madison Square Garden crowd of 15,034 when he was honored in a ceremony after the game.

Schayes' seven points and four rebounds boosted his career totals to 18,778 and 10,839, respectively, both NBA records. Including 98

Figures Teacher Should Be Paid

NEW YORK (AP)—Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, director of the Atomic Energy Commission nuclear reactor program, says a good teacher should be paid more than a senator, or even an admiral.

"If there is not enough money to pay for education," Rickover told the Fund for the Republic meeting Monday, "I would take it out of the military funds."

The two-day meeting, which ends today, marks the 10th anniversary of the fund. It has brought together a host of speakers from this country and overseas to discuss playoff and 12 All-Star games, old No. 4 actually has played in 1,110 NBA games, a remarkable record for durability.

Does he plan to retire after this season? Last year after setting an NBA record of playing in 706 consecutive games he suffered a fractured cheek bone and a torn cartilage in his left knee that put him on the bench for a spell.

"I don't know yet," Schayes replied. "A lot depends on how the knee comes around. So far it feels good. If I can't help the team, I won't linger on."

Hank Aguirre Gets Sizeable Pay Increase

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"May the bubble never burst," said Detroit pitcher Hank Aguirre last season as his earned run average and batting average continued to drop at a rate that would send stock market manipulators scurrying for apple carts.

It didn't. And Tuesday the 30-year-old left-hander, who made one of the most astonishing flip-flops in the majors last year, got his dividend—a $7,000 pay boost to $25,000 when he signed his 1963 baseball contract with the Tigers.

Aguirre had a 4-4 record and a 3.27 ERA in 1961. In 1962 he underwent a complete transformation after getting his first start on May 26, and wound up with a 16-8 mark and a major league leading 2.21 ERA.

How does Aguirre account for the change?

He gives much of the credit to team physician Dr. Russell Wright, who convinced Aguirre that a pain in his chest stemmed from a quirk in his pitching motion and had nothing to do with his heart.

"I got sick the second day of the season in 1960," says Aguirre. "I was in church when it happened. I got a pain in the chest. I thought I had a heart attack. The doctors told me I didn't, but I didn't believe them."

Wright convinced him, and Aguirre corrected the hitch in his pitching form and became a winner.

Felipe Alou of National League champion San Francisco, who batted .316, hit 25 home runs and drove in 98 runs, now is numbered as an unsatisfied customer of the Giants.

Alou said at his home in Santo Domingo that he had mailed his contract back to San Francisco unsigned. "I think I had a good season," he said, "and I think I deserve more than they offered." Reports indicate Alou wants a $12,000 boost to $30,000.

Giants' Vice President Chub Feeney agreed that Alou had had a good season. "All I can say is that he had a good year and we offered what we considered a good raise. We will wait and see what he asks."

At Los Angeles, the mail brought the Angels' signed contracts from pitcher Bob Turley, acquired from the New York Yankees, and outfielder Ken Hunt.

cuss "challenges to democracy in the next decade." Rickover said American education is placing too much emphasis on "salable skills" and that there is too much influence wielded by "promoters and administrators" instead of teachers.

Dedicates His Life to the Aged

By ROBERT R. HOLTON

WESTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP)—Ten years ago, Mike McGarvey dedicated his life to bringing a little more sunshine into the twilight years of the aged.

Today he has 50 guests at his retirement residence here known as Bide-A-Wee Home.

Should a guest complain, McGarvey is by his side in a matter of minutes, patting his head with one hand and offering a biscuit in the other.

More often than not, the problem will be solved and the guest will bark with satisfaction.

That's right, bark.

All the guests are dogs.

McGarvey is in charge of the kennel which began the "old-age pension plan for dogs" a decade ago. Three years ago, there were but 10 aged guests in the residence along with about 100 other dogs taken there to be placed for adoption.

"The dogs we take in under the old-age pension plan are of an age equivalent to an aged human being," McGarvey said. "Many of them have heart trouble, need special diets and require constant care and supervision."

As in the case of humans, McGarvey said, dogs are living longer. Their diets have been improved and their ailments are being cured.

Bide-A-Wee is a nonprofit organization subsisting on fees paid for adopted animals, public donations and funds from a large pet cemetery in Wantagh, N.Y. The organization has a home in Manhattan, one in Wantagh and one in Westhampton.

Only the Westhampton home caters to aged dogs.

Why would people put a dog in such a home?

"Sometimes the dog came to the family when the children were growing up. Then the kids go off to school and the dog is no longer thought about," McGarvey said.

"So, rather than neglect the dog, the owners bring him here and pay $300 a year to enter him in the pension plan which covers all care and food."

"Sometimes, people with dogs move where they don't allow dogs and the dog is brought here to live out his life."

Are the home's residents happy?

"Well, they don't talk, but it's not too hard to tell a dog is happy when he wags his tail and licks at your hand when you pet him and feed him. I think they are happy,"

Three Teams Advance in County Meet

In the Hempstead County tournament at Blevins last night the Guernsey Junior girls downed Blevins by a score of 20 to 13.

Spring Hill's Junior boys came through with a rousing 33 to 15 victory, over Saratoga and the Saratoga girls had very little trouble ousting the Blevins ladies 26 to 18.

Three games are scheduled for tonight. The Hope and Saratoga Junior girls tangle at 6:30 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m. the Senior girls teams from Guernsey and Spring Hill will meet and the final contest of the night pairs the Spring Hill and Blevins senior boys at 8:30 p.m.

Vander Kelen Signs With the Vikings

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PAUL-Minneapolis (AP)—It's a mighty leap from a 90-second scrub in college to National Football League apprentice quarterback, but Wisconsin's Ron VanderKelen is so nonchalant about it all you'd think he was Y. A. Tittle.

"I realize nobody can just step in and play pro football," the handsome Badger grinner said Tuesday after he had signed a one-year contract with the Minnesota Vikings.

Terms were not disclosed, but the pact does not include a no-cut clause. It is believed he signed for about $20,000 in bonus and salary. A personal agreement with a Viking owner will guarantee employment so VanderKelen will realize his salary next year whether he makes the team or not.

"I think I can make it or I wouldn't have signed," the Rose Bowl hero said.

"Sure this club has a real good quarterback in Fran Tarkenton. I don't know if I'll ever be as good as he is, but I'll try and I know with this team I'll get the chance."

A chance is all VanderKelen wants. The 23-year-old had offers from 11 other pro clubs, some of them possibly more lucrative.

To Hold Sabine Oral Programs

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Sebastian County Medical Society decided here Tuesday night to hold Sabine oral polio vaccine programs Feb. 10 and March 31. Type I of the vaccine will be given at 13 clinics Feb. 10, to be followed March 31 with Type II. No date has been set for administering Type III.

The society said it hoped to immunize 80 per cent of the county's population.

He picked Minnesota because "I think it's a great opportunity to play on a young team. Now it just depends on how well I perform whether I can make it."

The last time VanderKelen "got a chance," was only five months ago when coach Milt Bruhn assembled his Badger squad for the start of fall practice.

VanderKelen was tabbed by Bruhn to fill the shoes of the departed Ron Miller, a fine college passer who rode the bench last season for the Los Angeles Rams. VanderKelen got the nod although his log showed only 90 seconds of varsity play.

Vandy, a 6-foot-2, 185-pounder not only became Wisconsin's first-string quarterback. He led Wisconsin to an 8-1 season and the Big Ten championship.

Then came the Rose Bowl and VanderKelen surpassed even his most brilliant Big Ten performances. Wisconsin lost to national champion Southern California 42-37, but not before Vandy rallied the Badgers from a four-touchdown deficit.
